

Learning about the habitat of wild brook trout is important. Knowing where they live and what they eat can make you a better angler. It can also help us protect and manage the waters in which they live.

1=caddisfly larva, stonefly and mayfly nymphs, 2=crayfish, 3=belted kingfisher, 4=slimy sculpin, 5=blacknose dace, 6=water penny